and what have you

by BOB CRAIG

If you have children around your house like we have maybe you can help us with our problem. What do you do with all of those stuffed animals Santa Claus brought? We got them in all sizes, colors, shapes breeds. We just moved into a three bedroom house and it looks like we had better start looking for a four bedroom one so we will have one room for the animals.

I hope that whatever the fad is next Christmas, that it will be something smaller.

The Hamlin Board of Community Development is launching its annual membership drive January 3 under the chairmanship of Fred B. Moore. The organization is faced with a do-or-die financial situation in that it must raise nearly twice as much money as was raised last year to meet its obligations. It operated this year by using money that was on hand at the first of the year and since this money is gone the need arises to increase the budget this much.

The future of Hamlin and all of the smaller towns in this country lies in a cooperative effort on the part of the people who have their money invested in them. The towns that make the most effort to survive will come out on top and the others will do well to exist for long. The BCD is the only organization in Hamlin dedicated to this end.

Whether you have a huge investment in Hamlin or just a job your future depends on what you do for your community now. The value of your home or business depends on an active BCD. You should support the organization in accord with your investment.

With the New Year coming up it is time to make those resolutions we always forget on the second. The following list is designed especially for you and your family so says the Texas State Department of Health. It is printed here with the hope that you will resolve to do more of them than I am likely to do.

Promise to give your body at least as good care as you give your car. Periodic examinations are the best way yet devised to detect bodily disorders while they can still be treated successfully, so let your doctor look you over thoroughly once a year whether you're ailing or not. Make it twice yearly if you're middle-aged.

Dental troubles won't kill you, but sometimes they can make you wish you were dead. So check in once yearly with your dentist, too.

If you are putting on weight, resolve to start passing up the candied yams, boiled potatoes and the cream-filled tidbits which almost invariably spell extra pounds and perhaps an early grave.

Too much weight contributes to high blood pressure, and may be associated with hardening of the arteries and various forms of heart disease. Too, it means impaired vigor, greater surgical risk and greater danger from otherwise minor illnesses.

The statistics linking smoking to cancer and heart disease are piling up so fast it is getting tougher and tougher to rationalize the habit. Resolve to impress those statistics on the minds of the teenagers in your family.

When driving, consider that every other car is being driven by a madman, and when walking trust motorists only as far as you can see them.

Promise to obey local and state laws pertaining to health protection. For example, if your town has a dog leash law, adhere to it. It is a public protective device and you are the public.

Last but virtually important, give an occasional thought to such awesome problems as water conservation, pollution abatement, juvenile delinquency and the growing number of elderly people in our society. Lend your support as a responsible citizen to community efforts to solve them.

SERVICES HELD TUESDAY FOR MRS. RALEY

Funeral services for Mrs. A. V. Raley, 79, were held here Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Raley died at 5:45 a.m. Saturday in the Hamlin Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for three weeks. A resident of Jones County since 1908, she had lived in Hamlin for ten years.

The Rev. Lenard Hartley, pastor, and the Rev. Jerry Bole, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Stamford, officiated. Burial was in Hamlin East Cemetery under the direction of Hamlin Funeral Home.

Born Mary E. Price, December 13, 1881, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Price, Carroll County, Arkansas. She was a graduate of East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce.

July 9, 1911, she was married to A. V. Raley at Garland, Texas. He died in 1957.

She was a member of the Fairview Baptist Church.

Survivors include four sons, Rupert Raley of Stamford, Maj. Truman Raley, an Army chaplain stationed in Germany; Luther Raley of San Lorenzo, California; Milton Raley of Bay City; one daughter, Mrs. Bill Smith of Hamlin; two brothers, John W. and Troy E. Price, Oklahoma; four sisters, Mrs. A. J. Whiteley of Tulsa, Oklahoma, Mrs. W. T. Smith, Locust Grove, Oklahoma, Mrs. H. C. McCallum of Garland, Anna Price of Berryville, Arkansas, and seven grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a sister who died in 1931.

Palbearers were Ralph Riddle, Homer Raney, Cleo Perryman, W. L. Hunter Jr., J. E. McCoy Jr. and Alton Hewett.

"To attract industry to our state, we must act now to meet today's competition. The fight for industry must be carried on at both the state and community levels. The Texas Industrial Commission has created a program to accomplish this important goal.

"It has been predicted that over 3,000 new major manufacturing plants will be born in the south in the next ten years. How many of these plants with their billions of dollars of capital investment and thousands of new jobs will locate in Texas? In your community? The number of industries which finally build in your community depends on how effectively your community cooperates in selling Texas to the nation."

Smith stressed that the BCD's 1961 program is designed to parallel the Texas Industrial Commission recommendation for organizing an industrial development program, and putting this program to work. In reference to county losses in the West Texas area, Smith said "Rural population in this county alone has decreased over 3,000. This loss is almost as great as the entire population of Hamlin. This population loss effects the economy of every community in this area, and the loss will continue. The only way these communities can overcome this loss is by bringing new industry to their town. If Hamlin is to grow, it must have new industry. The value of new industry is almost immeasurable. Basically, it brings these important benefits to your town:

1. More employment, new jobs.
2. Larger spendable income.
3. More people.

4. Better schools and community services.
  5. Increased business activity.
- Every person in Hamlin stands to gain by this most important program.

H. L. MONEY DROWNS NEAR MONAHANS

Funeral services are set at 3:00 p.m. today at the Baptist Church in Wickett for Homer Lewis Money, 24, a former Hamlin resident who was the victim of accidental drowning in an oil field near Monahans. Mr. Money had worked in Hamlin for about a year before returning to Wickett a month ago. While in Hamlin he was employed with Hamlin Oil Well Servicing Co. and more recently was employed at Simpson's Food Store for two months.

He had been visiting relatives in Hamlin for the Christmas holidays and had returned to his job with an oil well servicing crew at Wickett. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Money, had remained for a longer visit and were here when they learned of his death.

The word received here indicated that Mr. Money was overcome by gas fumes and was found by fellow workmen after falling into the slush. Efforts of an ambulance crew from Monahans failed to revive him.

Born here September 18, 1936, he moved to West Texas with his parents when about five years of age. He was a member of the First Baptist Church here.

Survivors include his parents of Wickett, four brothers, Clovis and Lynn of the home; Wilson of Grand Falls, Kenneth of Wichita Falls; one sister, Mrs. Wesley (Laverne) Campbell of Abilene, and his grandfather, Tom Hill of the Hittson Community, with whom Mr. Money made his home while working here.

Graveside rites will be held Friday morning at 10:00 a.m. at the Afton Cemetery, northwest of Hamlin.

portant program and it will take just about every person in Hamlin, their cooperation and help, to carry out a successful program.

"In this modern world of competition, each community must go after new industry. This effort requires work on the part of a lot of people. The work must be properly planned, directed and executed if it is to bear fruit. A good way to get started is to support this great step of the BCD's next year's program," Smith concluded.

Smith outlined the steps planned for organizing the entire community for industrial development: 1. Hold a meeting of all business, professional and civic leaders who will work; 2. Determine what Hamlin has to offer industry.

4. Make a complete inventory of Hamlin and those things we find Hamlin to be weak in will be our program to strengthen it for the next ten years.

Charged with the responsibility of providing an adequate budget for carrying out such an extensive program, Moore said, "We must have the cooperation and help from every businessman in Hamlin who is not a member of the BCD and must ask an increase in dues from many of those who are members. As a token of my interest and what I think the program can do for me and my community, I am doubling my pledge to the BCD for 1961."

Moore, added that every business and professional man or woman will be called on to pledge their support of the new industrial development program in January.

Most of Hamlin To Remain Open Monday, Jan. 2

Although Monday is listed as a holiday on the BCD calendar, a spot check of the Hamlin merchants reveals only a small part of them will be closed.

The bank, and postoffice will be closed as well as some of the grocery stores. The department stores and most of the retail business houses will remain open Monday.

Railroads Pay $21,527 in Taxes to Jones County

Texas railroads paid $21,527 in taxes in Jones county during 1959, according to the Texas Railroad Association.

That amount was the county's share of the nearly $10,000,000 the railroads paid throughout the state.

In addition, of course, was the large total in taxes the railroads approximately 40,000 Texas employees contributed on their own property. The vast majority of railroad workers, many of whom live in Jones county own their own homes.

The largest railroad contribution in Jones County was for the support of education. The school tax for 1959 totaled $13,559.

City and village taxes amounted to $3,324, while the share of the county government's operating expenses paid for by the railroad totaled $2,238. The road and bridge fund gained $2,268 from the railroads in 1959. All other taxes brought the total for the county to $21,527.

"With the future of our country and state depending to a great extent upon the education of our youth, I am glad to see that nearly half of the taxes paid by the railroads in 1959 a total of $4,565,103, went to support the schools," said Walter Caven, general counsel of the Texas Railroad Association. "Recognizing this need for education, many of our railroads also make scholarships available every year."

BROKERAGE LOANS HELD ILLEGAL — Austin Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a district court decision outlawing a brokerage system for loan companies.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, who filed the suit against an Austin loan company and a Corpus Christi loan company, called the ruling "an important victory in the war against loan sharks."

According to the attorney general's charges, people who borrow money from the Austin company had to pay brokerage fee to the Austin loan company for obtaining the money from the Corpus Christi company. Appeals court agreed with the trial court that this was an illegal means of charging excessively for loans.

Attorney General Wilson said the Corpus Christi firm has such brokerage arrangements with about 175 loan companies over the state.

'THUNDER IN CAROLINA' BOOKED SUNDAY ON DOUBLE AT ROGUE

Stock Car racing, like Topsy, just grew, but unlike Topsy, it kept on growing. First, the moonshine runners in the North Carolina mountains with their souped up cars and driving skill, held impromptu races with each other on week-ends and all days. Shortly, this had branched out into loosely organized meets on dirt tracks throughout the general area. Suddenly, stock car racing was a sport with thousands of competitors and hundreds of thousands of spectators, with tracks mushrooming all over the country. An organization and governing body was inevitable and it came in the form of NASCAR which ruled and governed with an iron hand. To you, NASCAR means National Association For Stock Car Auto Racing which is now headed by Bill France.

The story of a race driver and stock car racing forms the thrilling background of the Wide-Screen color motor picture, "Thunder in Carolina" starring Rory Calhoun and co-starring Alan Hale, Connie Hines, and John Gentry which opens Sunday at the Rogue.

When it was decided to use the "Southern 500", which is run each Labor Day at Darlington, South Carolina as the background for the big race, the one thing the officials of Darlington Raceways insisted upon was that the film be authentic and technically correct without violating the rules and traditions of the tracks as had been done in past racing films. To get the completely authentic flavor of the race itself, Director Paul Helmick, decided to put cameras right on the track to photograph the race from the driver's eye view. But this was easier said than done. In order for any car to be on the track, it must be officially entered in the race, handled by a qualified driver, and the car itself must pass all of the rigid rules of NASCAR.

Fortunately, Neil Castles, one of the stunt men being used on the picture was a regular Grand National driver with his own race car. Forthwith, he put his car into condition, passed all of the strict inspections and tests of the supervising officials, and qualified to enter the "Southern 500" on Labor Day.

Another Grand National driver, Joe Eubanks, and a great guy to everyone on the circuit, consented to have a camera mounted into the trunk of his car to shoot from the rear so, that scenes could be captured, both front and back. The result was that for first time in motion picture history, scenes were photographed from race cars right in the actual race, literally transcribing the audience right into middle of the exciting action.
